An Alaskan Malamute was the inspiration behind Chewbacca in the Star Wars films. The film's creator, George Lucas, had a pet Malamute called Indiana who sat by his side while he wrote the script.

Small dog in the world by weight is a Chihuahua called Pepi. She weighs just 3.9 lb (1.8 kg) and is smaller than a mouse!

A loyal (and very greedy!) Xoloitzcuintli called Dante appears in the Disney Pixar film Coco.

A famous rescue dog was a Stubby from World War I. This heroic mascot helped find wounded soldiers and warned his regiment of attacks.

NORTH AMERICA

From the super-floofy to the fur-free, North America is home to an incredible mix of dogs. Many North American breeds were developed with a particular job in mind - whether that's pulling a sled through a snowstorm, guarding a cattle ranch on the prairie, or guarding homes in the wild West. Others are more of a home-loving breed, like the show-stopping Great Dane.
